

NEFC INDOOR TRAINING FACILITY

Background

The New England Futbol Club (NEFC) is one of the top soccer clubs in the nation and the largest of its kind in the region. For years, they spent hundreds of thousands of dollars per year leasing indoor space. They decided to take the next step and build their own indoor facility to eliminate their reliance on other entities and take complete control of their indoor season. Once they had the land and the financing, they wanted to complete the project on a timeline that would prevent them from having to lease for another year.

Solution

The club needed a state of the art solution on a tight timeline. NEFC had visited the New England Patriots indoor practice facility and believed that type of structure— a steel frame with a PVC membrane fabric roof and wall system, might fit the bill. That led them to Signature and a design build solution that fit their budget and timeline perfectly.

Details

Signature specializes in clean sheet design build solutions. We work with our clients every step of the way including design, engineering, project management, manufacturing and turn key installation. For this project, we assisted the client's architect on a design that included a large fieldhouse structure, a smaller work out area, and a modular building housing offices, locker rooms and conference facilities. The result was over 60,000 total square feet under cover and a state of the art facility unmatched in the region.
